What we are trying to make?

We are making a Food recipe search website that will show you the ingredients and recipe of the selected food items.

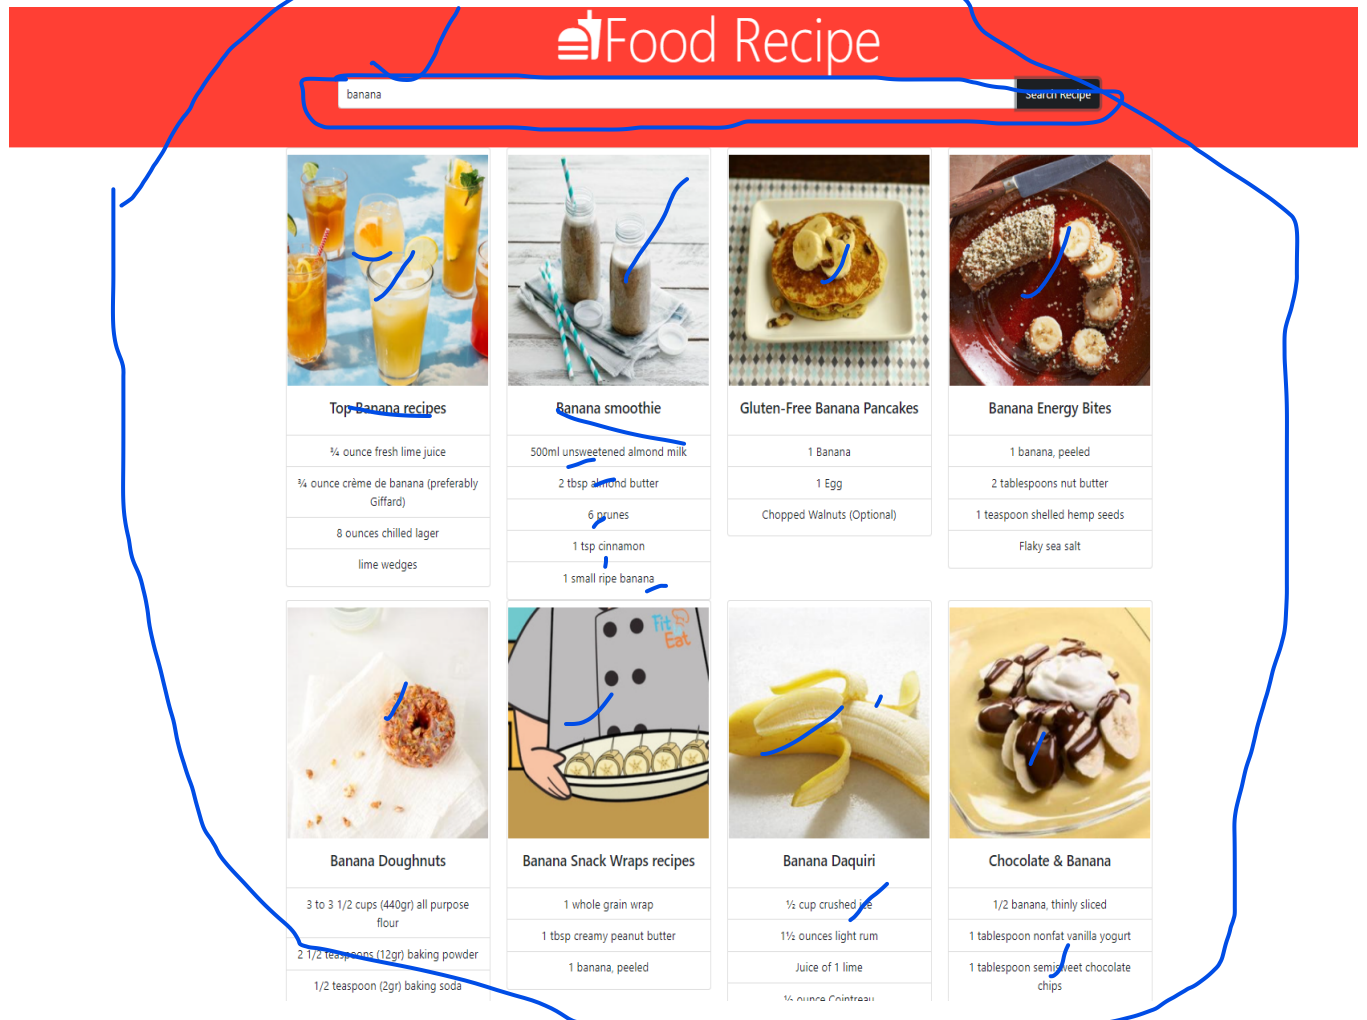

From where do we get the ingredients or recipe data of a particular food item?

We are using Edamam API which is free to use API for developers, We will hit the free version of Edamam API and it will respond the data to our frontend. We will Axios to hit the API.

At last, we will Add some react-bootstrap to make the website look fancier. We will not discuss react-bootstrap in very much detail but at the end of all the notes, you will have a clear picture of React.js and the whole Project.

Surely, you will be able to use react in your upcoming project.

How does Will Final Project look like?

Let's start with theory and implementation in upcoming notes.
